Mission Statement

At St Mark's C of E Primary School we will:

- Welcome everyone
- Build Christian values and worship into our teaching
- Establish strong links between home, school and community
- Endeavour to reach our full potential and celebrate our achievements
- Care for, encourage and respect each other
- Support each other to stay safe, healthy and make a positive contribution to our world.

Our school is a place where every person has the right to be themselves and to belong and learn in a safe and happy environment. Everyone at our school is equal and treats each other with respect and kindness. We do not tolerate bullying.

1 Introduction

- 1.1 At St Mark's C of E Primary School, we will take a professional approach to the tasks of marking work and giving feedback on it. All children are entitled to regular and comprehensive feedback on their learning, therefore, all teachers will mark work and give feedback as an essential part of the assessment process.

2 Aims and objectives

- 2.1 We mark children's work and offer feedback in order to:
- show that we value the children's work, and encourage them to value it too;
 - boost the pupils' self-esteem, and raise aspirations, through use of praise and encouragement. The main objective of marking and feedback is not to find fault, but to help children learn. If children's work is well matched to their abilities, then errors that need to be corrected will not be so numerous as to affect their self-esteem;
 - give the children a clear general picture of how far they have come in their learning, and how they can improve their work in the future;
 - offer the children specific information on the extent to which they have met the lesson objective, and/or the individual targets set for them (HALO);
 - promote self-assessment, whereby the children recognise their difficulties, and are encouraged to accept guidance from others;
 - share expectations;
 - gauge the children's understanding, and identify any misconceptions;
 - provide a basis both for summative and for formative assessment;
 - provide the ongoing assessment that should inform our future lesson-planning.

3 Principles of marking and feedback

- 3.1 We believe that the following principles should underpin all marking and feedback:
- The process of marking and offering feedback should be a positive one, with pride of place given to recognition of the efforts made by the child.
 - Marking and feedback is the dialogue that takes place between teacher and pupil, ideally while the task is still being completed.
 - Marking should always relate to the lesson objective/success criteria and, increasingly, the child's own personal learning targets.

- The child must be able to read and respond to the comments made, and be given time to do so. Where the child is not able to read and respond in the usual way, other arrangements for communication must be made.
- Comments should be appropriate to the age and ability of the child, and may vary across year groups and key stages.
- Comments will focus on only one or two key areas for improvement at any one time.
- Teachers should aim to promote children's self-assessment by linking marking and feedback into a wider process of engaging the child in his or her own learning. This includes sharing the learning objectives/success criteria and the key expectations for the task right from the outset.
- Whenever possible, marking and feedback should involve the child directly. The younger the child, the more important it is that the feedback is oral and immediate.
- The marking system should be constructive and formative. A useful formula is this: 'praise, advice on improvement, more praise'.
- For one-to-one feedback (teacher to pupil) to be effective, sufficient mutual trust must be established.
- Feedback may also be given by a teaching assistant, or through peer review.
- Group feedback is provided through plenaries too, and in group sessions.
- Feedback will help a child to identify their key priorities for improvement and the progress they are making towards personal targets.
- Teachers will note errors that are made by many children and use them to inform future planning.
- Marking will always be carried out promptly, and will normally be completed before the next lesson in that subject.
- School marking policy is adhered to by all staff, teachers, teaching assistants, supply teachers and student teachers.

4 Implementing the marking policy

- 4.1 The school has explicit rules that apply to all pieces of work (e.g. the date and title must be present, with the lesson objective/context and often, success criteria at the top), and teachers will not accept the work unless these rules have been followed.
- 4.2 In addition to these general rules, there are specific rules for specific types of work, e.g. numeracy. These rules have been taught and may be on display. They make it clear what good-quality work in the subject is like.
- 4.3 The extent of the teacher's response to a piece of work is determined not by the number of errors found in it, but by the teacher's professional judgement. Consideration is given to what a particular child is capable of, what the next learning stages involve, and what should now have priority. Children should not receive the impression that things are right when they are not; on the other hand, they should not be discouraged from being adventurous for fear of having faults emphasised.
- 4.4 In order to encourage a positive response, any negative comments must always be followed up by a constructive statement on how to improve.
- 4.5 Written comments are more valuable than marks or grades. We do not normally give marks or grades on pieces of written work.
- 4.6 Ticks are normal where work is correct, HALOs for when the learning has been met and the school marking policy adhered to for corrections/improvements.
- 4.7 Wherever possible, teachers should establish direct links between oral or written praise and the class or school rewards systems. At the same time, teachers should remember that stickers and stars in themselves do nothing to close gaps in understanding, or to bring about improvements.

- 4.8 Where pupils interact in the marking process, they will be all the more engaged and receptive to correction.
- 4.9 When appropriate, children may mark their own or another child's work, but the teacher must always review this marking. Marking their own work is usually preferable, because when the teacher makes a point, the children need to be able to relate it to their own efforts.
- 4.10 Children should be encouraged to assess their work ahead of final marking against any success criteria and learning objective set
- 4.11 In addition, the children could indicate where they think a particular target has been achieved. Their learning partners might also check on their behalf, before the work is handed in, that a particular target has been met.
- 4.12 Occasional personal tutorials offer a valuable opportunity to review and evaluate the progress a child is making, by highlighting successes and identifying the next learning points.
- 4.13 Teachers will comment on spelling, punctuation and grammar in line with ARE and non-negotiables

5 Monitoring and review

- 5.1 We are aware of the need to monitor and update the school's marking and feedback policy on a regular basis, so that we can take account of improvements made in our practice. We will therefore review this policy in two years, or earlier if necessary.
